WEEKLY LETTER FROM WASHINGTON

Renewal of Activities Around the White House

New Bill Creating Tariff Com- mission To Be Pro- posed.

Washington, Jan. 2.—With the close of the holiday season, there is a renewal of activity in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government in Washington. Rarely two months of the life of the present Congress remains for at the close of 12 M. on the 4th of March the first Congress will expire by limitation. Then nearly twelve months must elapse before the Congress is re-elected. This is an assembly and again the work for which it was elected. This is an exceedingly clumsy arrangement, for it is not only puts off till tomorrow what ought to be done today, but multiplies the delay by nearly four hundred days. However, by the headmen of the government, the remedy must be through legislation. It is almost impossible of attainment.

As measure of prime importance which will be urged by the President, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of State and by members and Senators in both houses of Congress, is the prompt fortification of the Panama Canal especially at its western end. Defenses against modern dreadnaughts cannot be improvised in a night, and it is impossible to exaggerate the importance of protecting a work upon which so much money has been spent and which is so vital to the protection of the Pacific coast.

The new year opens with the United States at peace with all the world but the words of Patrick Henry still ring in our ears. "Peace, peace," but there is no peace, are just as true as they were in 1775. There is no peace in the family, no peace in the apartment house, no peace between owners of adjoining farms, and the United States having extended its borders to Panama, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Guam and the Aleutian Islands, is in perpetual rasping attrition with the rest of the world. It might be better if we could give away or sell the Philippines and let the Japanese poachers have all the seals on the Pribilof Islands and escape quarrels by confining ourselves to antebellum boundaries, but we are in a situation of having and holding and can't let go. Therefore it is wisdom to strengthen our hold with warships and fortifications.

It is doubtful if the Mikado's government knows anything about the alleged few stations that certain Japanese are said to have built on the lonely coasts of the Philippines; or that Japanese merchants are smuggling arms and explosives to our always more or less rebellious Philippine dependants. What a stupor of inactivity it was, anyhow, of the Japanese war for us to have fortified the islands and have fastened the Philippine revolution around our neck.

Representative Longworth of Ohio has come back to Washington with the complete draft of a bill creating a tariff commission, and it is said that Payne, Aldrich, and the rest of them are in favor of such a commission and that legislation on the subject will be completed before the 4th of March. The bill as drafted creates a commission of five members each with a salary of $7,500 and of the membership not more than three are to be of the same political party. The central office is to be in Washington, but the commission is empowered to meet anywhere and is given wide powers of collection and collation of facts. The bill authorizes the commission to go into the cost of production of all articles and to investigate the wages paid at home and in foreign countries, also the prices paid for materials, whether imported or domestic. The maximum and minimum and change of the present tariff law is mentioned in the bill. The members of the commission are to be appointed by the President.

Find 7,000 Counterfeit Dimes.
Washington, Jan. 3.—Captains made last night near Newark, N. J. of two more counterfeiters are believed to put the entire gang in the hands of the secret service. Following the raids Tuesday night on the plant in Brooklyn, when Jacob Cobb, Frank Spellburg and Aaron Silver were taken with a peck of spurious quarters and dimes and a bushel basket full of counterfeit instruments, the detectives trailed the remnants of the gang into New Jersey.

Last night near Newark they took Max Silver and David Galtman and captured the largest quantity of counterfeit coins ever found in one raid in the history of the secret service. Seven thousand dimes, one thousand quarters and sixty molds were found with the fugitives. The operations of the gang had been under observation for several weeks.

Third Regiment Band Out.

Following the mustering out of the Third Regiment band, which took place at the Davless county armory at Owensboro Sunday afternoon Captain W. P. Daniel announced that a new band will be organized to be known as the Owensboro band and that the papers of incorporation will be so drawn that should the band cease to exist, the instrument will revert to the city of Owensboro.

The Third Regiment band was mustered out of service by Col. Woodard pursuant to instructions issued by the adjutant general of Kentucky. All of the musical instruments and uniforms of the band will be sent to the arsenal at Frankfort.

TENTS THROWN UP BY MEN ON GUARD

Soldiers Looking After Night Rider's Safety Prepare to Ward off Elements.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 1.—Equipment to make them comfortable through the winter has been received and put into use by the soldiers who are guarding Milton Oliver at his home in Lyon county. Oliver has confessed that he was a member of the night riders, and his testimony is relied upon largely by the prosecution in the trials to come here of six of the alleged leaders in the raid upon this city. One night last May he was wounded by a charge of buckshot fired at him by an enemy, and since then soldiers have guarded him constantly.

These soldiers have now been provided with the regulation army tents that are round in shape and are fitted with a stove for heating during the cold weather. They have also been supplied with heavy clothing, and are ready for the exposure that must come to them.

The trials here are set for March 6, and the soldiers will have to maintain their camp until that time, if not longer.

A Missing Pig Found.

One day about a month ago, Mr. A. J. Nichols missed a pig that would weigh about fifty pounds from his bunch of hogs. The hogs were in an inclosure and Mr. Nichols looked the field over carefully, but failed to find the missing pig. He concluded that it had gone into some of the thickets and died. Last Monday two of his sons were at work in a field when their dog found something in a hollow log. Going to where he was they out into the log with an ax and found the lost pig. It had been reduced to a mere skeleton, was blind and unable to stand. The boys took the pig to the house and it appears now that it will recover from its long fast, though its eyesight will not be restored.—Greenville Sentinel.

A Giant's Collapse.

The Owensboro Messenger says: Robert Kerrick, agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company at Union the largest man in Kentucky for his age, weighing 402 pounds came near being seriously injured at the depot when his foot slipped and he fell down a flight of stairs. He had struck a nearby telephone pole and it was several minutes before he regained consciousness. It required six men to carry Kerrick into the waiting room of the depot.

PLANS MONUMENT FOR J. B. MOISANT

Shaft to be Erected Near New Orleans, Where Dead Aviator Fell.

New Orleans, Jan. 3.—The memory of John B. Moisant will be perpetuated in a monument of granite and bronze to be erected in the marshes near Harahan, at the spot where the noted aviator fell to his death Saturday from a Blériot monoplane.

Tentative plans for the monument to erect a monument to Moisant are in the hands of Crawford H. Ellis, chairman of the citizens' committee which had charge of the recent aviation meet here. Ellis said he felt sure contributions to the monument would come from every section of the United States and from Europe and Central America.

"John Moisant did not fly for commercial purposes," said Mr. Ellis, "but for the sake of science. He was a serious earnest student of aviation and had a definite aim in his development of the art of flying. Without hope or desire for financial gain, he showed the wonders of the aeroplane to thousands of citizens of New Orleans. John B. Moisant and his brother, Alfred and the other gentlemen connected with the company are all working in the interest of science. The visit of the company to New Orleans was most disastrous. It resulted in the death of one of the leading aviators of the world and a loss of $16,000 to the company.

"We are of the opinion that John B. Moisant deserves a monument as much as any other pioneer of science and at an early date the movement for the monument will be placed on a systematic basis. We have no doubt but that it will be successful."

Doing Well in the South.

The following from the Bassler Banner of Benton, La., concerning Prof. Lawrence M. Gary will be of interest to the many friends of the young man in this county:

Tuesday, Dec. 13.—An I. O. O. F. Lodge has been organized in Red Land, bearing the title of Red Land Lodge No. 149.

The following officers were elected: L. M. Gary, noble grand; Howard L. Raphael, vice grand; Rupert Butler, secretary; J. D. McKellar, treasurer.

Our school at Red Land is moving along nicely under the management of Prof. L. M. Gary and his assistants. They are crowded at present, but expect another teacher after the holidays.

Elevated to Justiceship.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 2.—Both the court of appeals and the Frankfort circuit court convened to-day for the January term. At 11 o'clock this morning Judge J. P. Hobson was elevated to the chief justiceship of the appellate court and three of the old members were sworn in again, and Judge Shackelford Miller, of Louisville, took the oath of office to succeed Judge Henry S. Barker, who became president of Kentucky university to-day.

Judge Thomas J. Nunn, of Madisonville First Appellate district; Judge W. E. Settle, of Bowling Green, Second district, and Judge John M. Lansing, of Boonville, Sixth district, having been re-elected in November, will to-day begin their new terms of eight years.

Retiring Judge Barker was not in court, but his associates upon the bench had a silver service to present to him. Judge Barker will be present to-morrow.

Found After 15 Years.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 3.—After a search of 15 years over the United States Mrs. Louise Meier has found her son, and he has been restored to her by his father. Mrs. Meier was a pretty Boston girl when she met Meier, who was the leader of the Columbia orchestra in Boston. They were married, but did not live happily together and separated. Meier left Boston, taking the boy with him. The mother grew lonely for the boy and began a search for him, which lasted 15 years. The son, now a young man, was finally located by his uncle, Ralph Bouton Meier.

BRUTAL ATTACK MADE ON YOUNG WHITE WOMAN

At Lawrenceburg and Posse is Scouring Country to Appre- hend Culprit.

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Jan. 2.—This was thrown into the wildest excitement to-night when it became known that Miss Ethel Warren, a member of one of the most prominent families here, had been attacked and brutally beaten by a negro, whose identity has not been learned. The negro made his escape and posse of citizens are scouring the county for him.

Miss Warren, who is employed as a saleswoman in a dry goods store, was on her way home from work and had reached the southwestern part of the city when she observed the negro following her. She quickened her pace but the negro overtook her and knocked her down and choked her. In attempting to defend herself from her assailant she broke her umbrella to pieces. When she screamed the negro slapped her in the mouth and before she could release his hand, Miss Warren had bitten a large piece out of his hand. Fearing detection, he then ran away.

Fearing against Miss Warren's assailant is so high that should he be caught and identified it is almost certain that he will be summarily dealt with. Every possible avenue of escape has been guarded and all the neighboring towns and cities have been notified to be on the lookout for the suspect. Identification is expected to be easy as account of the wound inflicted on the negro's hand by his victim's teeth.

Baptist state Board Meets.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 3.—The Baptist State Board is holding a meeting at Norton Hall, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, this afternoon. The board convened at 2 o'clock. Chairman J. D. Coleman is presiding. R. E. Reed is secretary of the board and Thomas D. Osborne is treasurer.

State missions is always one of the most important subjects that comes up for consideration before the board. While not so important, it also takes care of some foreign missionary work.

Reports from the various States of the Union as to contributions to foreign missions during the period from May 15, 1909 to December 15, 1909, show that Kentucky stands second in the amount of its contributions to foreign missions, Georgia leading all other States among Baptist churches. The contributions of the leading States are as follows: Georgia, $18,793.91; Kentucky $15,883.75; Virginia, $15,095.37; Alabama, $14,355.46; South Carolina, $14,241.50.

NO CREEK

Dec. 27.—Christmas holidays were enjoyed by all of our people as far as we have been able to find out.

Prof. C. E. Allen visited friends at his old home Saturday and Sunday.

The school entertainment in connection with the League at this place was enjoyed by all present last Friday night. The teacher and scholars deserve credit for the rendition of their pieces.

Mr. James Lewis who has been doing guard duty in the night rider section in Lyon county, came home last Friday to spend a few days with his parents and friends.

Mrs. Olive Shackley, of Livermore, visited her sisters, Mrs. J. W. Foster, and Mrs. B. S. Chamberlain Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Sherman and Luther Chamberlain made a trip to Livermore one day last week. We suspect they were hunting Santa Claus.

Mr. John Johnson has moved in John A. Johnson's property recently vacated by Mr. Ernest Wallace.

Mrs. J. P. Sandor had some meat stolen one night last week, two hams and two shoulders. A good many of our best citizens started out Monday morning to see if they could find any trace of the stolen meat. About fifteen good, honest farmers made a house to house canvass in search of the stolen property, and they meant business. This is not the first time that such things have happened in old Nolichucky and the good people are getting tired of such work, and they mean to put a stop to it.

Mr. Elder Dodson and family visited their old home place, this week near Barnett's creek church with the former's father, mother, brothers and sisters. They met at their old home and had a reunion of the Dodson family.

BODIES HACKED TO PIECES BY AN AX

Man's Head Beaten to Pulp and Wife's Throat Cut—One Sus- pect is Arrested.

Williamsburg, Ky., Jan. 2.—With both their bodies hacked to pieces, probably by an ax the murder of an aged couple, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Osborne was discovered in their home near Corbin to-day. An effort had also been made to burn the house, but after gaining some headway, the fire had apparently gone out. The authorities are looking for a man who had been tramping over this section of the mountains and who is known to have gone to Osborne's home Sunday to spend the night.

The man's head was beaten to a pulp while his wife's throat was cut from ear to ear. Oil had been scattered throughout the house. Robbery is believed to be the motive as the Osbornes were unknown to have kept considerable money in the house.

One suspect, Will Lytle, was arrested late to-day and placed in jail here to-night.

I. C. TRAIN HITS AN OPEN SWITCH

Engine, Tender and Bag- gage Car are Derailed.

Thought Switch Opened by Some One Intending to Rob the Train.

The Illinois Central passenger train that left Owensboro Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, was wrecked at Stinson's switch, six miles out of Owensboro and one and one half miles north of Philpot, when it ran into an open switch going full speed. Luckily no one was seriously injured and no great damage resulted from the wreck, as Engineer Road realized what was occurring and applied the air brakes, which kept the passenger cars from being derailed.

Engine car were derailed having run off of the end of the switch, and the engine is hard stuck in mud.

Engineer William O. Road had his left foot severely mashed by a large lump of coal falling on it, the Fireman Maxey Ruthart, was slightly injured by being thrown against the side of the engine cab. Several passengers were slightly injured by being hurled violently against the seats, but none seriously.

Those passengers slightly injured are: Prof. James McKinley, and Boyd McCarty of Whitesville and J. Holderman, of Philpot, besides Lloyd Holland, of Whitesville, who was injured by jumping from the train.

The railroad officials will investigate the cause of the wreck, as the switch lock had been broken and the switch opened after the passenger train had passed the point, about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon on route to Owensboro. It was thought that the switch was opened by some one intending to rob the baggage car and express messenger.

When it was found that no one was seriously injured and that the passenger cars could continue the trip to Horse Branch, Henry Vintet, the conductor in charge of the train, notified the officials in Owensboro, and had the freight engine sent out. The passengers were taken to their destination after a delay of over two hours.

The wrecker and a large crew of men accompanied by Trainmaster U. B. Japans, arrived at the scene Monday morning at 2 o'clock and cleared away the wreck. Monday afternoon the engine was replaced on the track and will be taken to the shop for repairs.

Mr. William Riley, who is recalcitrant tobacco here, was among the passengers when the train was wrecked Sunday night. He had to wait at Horse Branch over an hour to catch the midnight train out of Louisville and it was nearly one o'clock before he reached Beaver Dam.

For many years this paper has published many columns of such matter without any charge whatever, but in justice to ourselves we must henceforth make this nominal charge. Our paper space is the only money with which we have to earn money with which to keep it alive and it would be just as fair for the merchants to be required to give away their goods as to expect this from us. MANY FAMOUS MULES IN HISTORY

Autos Can't Equal Feats of Sagacious Animals.

Here is a Story of a Cannon Being Mounted on the Back of
"Kicker."

Gen. James Grant Wilson very naturally begins his stories about army mules in the current independent with a few reflections on the relation of the mule to civilization, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

But, however, wise it may be in general for a writer to impress the reader with the broad significance of his subject at the outset, such a device is unnecessary when the subject is the mule. Even if the mule were in nowise related to the affairs of nations, his simple but interesting personality would be sufficient to sustain an article.

For this reason we proceed at once to the stories of some of the individual army mules that have made names for themselves. And first there was Mexique.

In fact, Mexique, an ancient gray mule, was practically enjoying the freedom of the post at Mt. Vernon barracks, near Mobile, Ala. He was too old and stiff to do anything but a bit of light work from time to time.

But because there was around him the glamour of a tradition that he was left there when Gen. Jackson's army encamped in the vicinity in 1819, he was honored about his fellows. And because of that same glamour, when an order to sell all unserviceable animals came the officers wrote to the war department asking that Mexique be kept and pensioned. Gen. Sherman indorsed the request.

There is on file in the war department an order dated October 30, 1883, and signed by Robert T. Lincoln, secretary which shows that Mexique's claims were not overlooked, even though republics are sometimes ungrateful. It reads: "Let this mule be well kept and cared for at the public expense as long as he lives."

Old Whitley, of the Twelfth army corps, was another famous army mule, according to Gen. Wilson. There was a tradition that Old Whitley, was in the ammunition train at the battle of Buena Vista and the storming of Monterey, like Mexique. But, whether he proved his courage on those stricken fields or not, there was no question about his having the true fighting spirit.

His chief pleasure in life was to slip his nose and wander about the camp seeking a mule that was worthy of his hoof. The disturbance he caused frequently made the soldiers think the enemy was making a midnight attack on the camp. But one night he nearly met his match.

There was a big seven-ton barrel of dynamite. This mule was a double-back-action kicker, with cylinder attachment and noiseless motion. One night Whitley got loose and got into Slick's camp and ran up against the big dynamite barrel. A few minutes the big dynamite barrel didn't seem to be "in it," but as they say in the prize rings, he was game as a pibble, got his second wind and tossed the crutch. Now the two mules stand on their hind legs and paw and bite and scream, and now again as quick as lightning they wheel and stand on their front legs and kick with 200-volt power, while a goodly portion of the army stands about cheering them on and betting on the result. Suddenly the dynamite presents his broadside to old Whitley, when quicker than thought the old warrior lands his two feet just over the region of the dynamite's heart. The dynamite drops, gasps once or twice and is dead.

The name of the next mule that Gen. Wilson celebrates is lost, but his exploit lives. A good many years ago, during an Indian campaign in the West, an officer conceived the idea of mounting a rapid-firing gun on a big mule. The thing was done and everything promised well until one day on the march the lanyard got tangled with the mule's hind foot.

The mule kicked and there was a rapid discharge. Surprised, he began to turn round and round to learn where the noise was coming from. At the same time he kept kicking to disentangle his hind leg. The effect was remarkable.

The spectacle presented by a steadily and well-disposed mule rearing on a fixed center, discharging a rapid-firing gun in all directions was very aroused conflicting emotions in the detachment, among which warlike enthusiasm could not be included. The command could have encountered with firmness an attack by three men in the open field, but a revolving mule, saddled with a rapid-firing gun, scattering death and wounds with every kick from his left hind foot, was too much, even for well-seasoned American soldiers. After the second revolution a disorganized battalion of rank and file alike began shouting from behind trees and rocks and out of the fastness into which they had all fled, "Stop that mule! Stop that mule!"

There is another army mule whose name is lost to fame but whose unfortunate experience no doubt serves as a warning to refractory army mules to this day. This particular mule was foolish enough to pit his obstinacy against the resourcefulness of Quartermaster Grant—afterward general—during the Mexican war. He was backed up against a large rock and his head was held firmly by several men. The harness was then thrown on him. Up came his heels and struck resoundingly against the rock, while an expression of doubt came over the intelligent animal's face. A few more kicks and he quit kicking. He saved his country usefully, if not heroically, throughout the whole campaign.

The automobile may some day even supplant the army mule. But it can never equal or dim the exploits of the sagacious animal which Gen. Wilson so ably presents and interprets.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, of Harrison, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it sure enough I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c & $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists. m

The Kentucky Mules are the Best of All.

How is it?
It has always been said that Kentucky surpasses in the product of whiskey, fast horses and the beauty of her women. Now comes the following from Washington that will add another star to her crown:

In South Africa the American mule is considered far superior to the animals imported from Argentina, according to consular reports. The Missouri or Kentucky mule is the best suited for South Africa. One hundred mules were recently imported from the United States and they have proved so satisfactory that a contract for two hundred more has just been closed. The mules must be fourteen and one half hands, deep girth, good bone and short legged and must be between four and seven years old. The price paid for American mules in South Africa is slightly less than $250.

Conjugal Felicity.

A New England farmer, noted for his uncontrolled temper, attended a religious revival in the neighborhood and became converted.

A month later he was holding forth to a number of friends and relatives gathered at the Thanksgiving dinner table, on the subject of his religious principles, his entire change of character, and his kind and forbearing disposition. Finally, growing enthusiastic in his description, he called on his wife to uphold his assertions.

"Jane," he shouted, "you haven't had an unkind word or deed from me since I got converted—now, have you?" There was a dead silence; then came in meek yet reminding tones, from the other end of the table:

"Jerome, Jerome, you've forgot the time you bit me."—January Lippincott's

Gumption of the Farm.

Do not try the guile of the good wife by giving her green wood to burn.

Many a man wears himself out trying ing to keep up with his good intentions.

The funniest thing about a big man is that he is apt to have a little wife.

Whitewash your barn, but never undertake to whitewash a crooked politician.

You are bigger than you seem; better than you believe yourself to be. So don't give way to discouragement.

There are more people dying for the lack of a kind word, a pat on the back and a little encouragement, than there are from disease.

Hot water on the grindstone will spoil it after a little so that it will have no grit. Use warm water, not hot, for taking the frost out of your stone.

What a lot of strength there is wasted chopping with dull axes! Spend a few minutes at the grindstone and see how nicely the world will go after that.

Some folks make themselves so lame kicking about things, that they tire themselves all out and never make anything out of life. It doesn't pay.

The boys and girls got enough hard knocks out in the world without your being stern and harsh with them. Let your home be to them a shelter and a refuge from the storms of the world.

Gets pretty slippery around the house and barn sometimes. Get a barrel of sand, coal ashes or sawdust and when such days come, scatter some of the icy spots. Easier to save bones than it is to mend them.

"Who pays the taxes?" ask Wallace Farmer. So far as we have been able to discover pretty nearly everybody pays. The tax collector is as relentless as death, and few are able to side-step him.

It helps the wagon-maker to let the mud freeze to the wheels when you come in from a trip. You don't need to be it though. By taking a little pain you can get most of the mud off while it is soft, and so save the wagon many years longer.

Do not track mud into the house. Provide a scraper and mat outside the door, and do not forget to use them before going into the house. Scrubbing floors and sweeping carpets are not easy tasks, and the thoughtful man will not add to his wife's burdens.

The horse blankets got torn sometimes. Some blustery day, take a good needle and thread and sew what a good job you can do mending the rents. It is a good thing for the men folks to do such little jobs as this and not call on the woman so much. They have their own work to do every day.

If you are thinking of moving, better look around first to see if the time, energy and money you would spend seeking a new location would not, if wisely spent about the old place result in an increase of profit and comfort that would justify you in staying with the old home. Better do this than be sorry.

To keep plows from rusting: To three pounds of tallow mix one pound of white lead. Melt the tallow in an old iron pot; stir in the white lead. When using, heat the mixture and apply it with an old paint brush. In the spring just put the plow in the ground. This will clean the moldboard as bright in a few yards as it was before. The same applies to any farm tool used for cultivating.

The rude, vulgar and often malicious pictures put forth in the guise of wit and caricature through the daily and Sunday press, are destroying the artistic sense, if not the kindly instincts of a whole generation of young people, who are growing to maturity looking upon them as one of the ordinary incidents of life. Carry the abominable things out of the house with the tongs, for the sake of the children.—From January Farm Journal.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6.

Speaker Cannon's Christmas greeting to the country was characterized and very much to the point. When asked for an expression on the future outlook he said: "The Democrats have promised to reduce the price of the products of labor, without reducing the wages of labor. I do not care to say anything more."

The Hartford Herald in commenting on the action of the Democratic State Executive Committee in ignoring the wishes of almost every candidate for a State office by calling a primary instead of a Convention, says: "Was the affair all out and dried? you are on the right track for once. Keep your ear to the ground. There are other surprises awaiting you."

Hon. Tom B. McGregor, assistant Attorney General under James Breathitt, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Attorney General of Kentucky. Mr. McGregor is a young man of splendid legal attainments and has shown himself thoroughly capable during his term in office. He is from Western Kentucky and should receive strong support from that section of the state. He will be remembered by many Ohio County Republicans as the young man who made such a splendid speech upon the occasion of a flag raising at Centertown, in 1908.

Ohio County is coming to the front with rapid strides as an educational county and there is no reason why in the next ten years our population should not double instead of making a meagre increase of a few hundred as it did during the last ten years. At the county seat we have the best school which has ever existed here, from every standpoint and this is not saying anything in disparagement of former administrations of Hartford college either. Besides we have flourishing high schools at Beaver Dam, Fordsville, McHenry, Centertown, and Rockport. Ohio County students need not leave the county to prosecute an education until ready for the university course.

While this newspaper is Republican, edited and owned by Republicans, yet it will maintain an independent character sufficient to prevent it from feeling compelled to support men or measures not Republican or when the former be corrupt or nominated in a manner unfair or who are not of the kind of material which should be placed in nomination for important offices. We wear no man's collar, and because of the mere fact that we are Republicans we cannot be compelled to support a "yellow dog" simply because he wears the Republican collar. We shall maintain a broad attitude toward men of all parties with absolute fair treatment for our opponents as well as men of our own party, and no one need expect defense through these columns who is not worthy, no matter what party tag he may wear.

Lest we forget, we again call attention of our citizens to the fact that Hartford must arrange for some manufacturing establishments during the coming year or else all of our efforts and the expenditure of thousands of dollars on streets and sewerage system will fail to make any increase in our population. A few evenings ago one of our citizens who has been compelled to see four saw-mill men leave home and go to other towns to find employment made the statement that he had seen seventy-five young men had gone out from Hartford within the past two or three years to seek employment for the reason that we have none to offer. This is a sad state of affairs and should engage the best thought of our citizenship. Will we sit idly by and allow the best blood and brain to leave our town because we can furnish no means of employment? These matters are respectfully directed to the Mayor, City Council and Commercial Club for attention.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

Kentucky has long been behind in the matter of building good highways, but the time is at hand when we must do something in this line if we would keep in line with our neighboring states. Last week a Good Roads Conference was held in the city of Louisville, and steps taken to promote legislation at the coming session of the Kentucky legislature which will place many counties in position to build good roads which have not been able to do so heretofore because of poverty. A bill has been drawn and will be presented for passage which provides for a State Highway Commission who shall prepare plans and specifications for the roads. It provides for the levy of a tax not to exceed five cents on the one hundred dollars of assessable property of Kentucky for the purpose of adding the counties in road building. Under its provisions, no county can receive state aid until the Fiscal Court of the County shall make application for it and then the state is to pay one-half of the cost of the construction and the county to pay the other half. No county will be entitled to any one year to more than two per cent of the total amount collected in the state for road purposes and no county is to receive state aid until it first provides for a county tax of not less than ten cents on the one hundred dollars and Fiscal Courts shall have the right to make a levy of not exceeding forty cents on the one hundred dollars for the maintenance of the roads. If the applications for state aid exceed the amount collected by the state, the funds are to be equalized by the State Highway Commissioner. These are the main points in the proposed law. We believe it is only a question of time when the national government will also furnish aid for road building to the various states, contingent upon the furnishing of a certain amount by the states themselves. If this law is enacted, Kentucky will be in position to get her part of the national aid. We have always contended that the national government could far better afford to assist the farmers throughout the country in building permanent macadamized roads than in wasting millions of dollars in building custom houses at cross roads towns and building locks and dams across little rivulets to please some member of Congress who expected to maintain his hold on his seat, by proclaiming to his constituents that through his influence so much money had been wasted in his district. We trust that this proposed legislation, which will enable Kentucky to put herself abreast of the times in the matter of road building will be placed upon the statute books by the coming legislature, and we desire to know in advance from the next representative of Ohio county that he is pledged to every proposition looking to the building of good roads. Our farmers waste thousands of dollars every year for extra teams, vehicles and harness traveling over mud roads, and the same amount saved for a few years would macadamize every foot of road in Ohio County.

State Convention Society of Equity.

Notice is hereby given that the annual convention of the Kentucky State Union A. S. of E. will meet in Bowling Green, Ky., on Wednesday January 11th, at ten o'clock and it is expected that all organized counties will elect and send the full number of delegates from the county, as is provided by the by-laws (two delegates at large and one additional) and in counties having no county union (each local will be entitled to one delegate). The National Tobacco Growers' convention a branch of the A. S. of E. will meet with the State Union; this will be a very important meeting for many reasons, one of which will be to arrange for the farmer to get good prices for tobacco uniformly all over the state, this we feel sure can be done if all parts of the state will apply the business principles of the A. S. of E. as they are now being applied in many parts of Kentucky and if so applied we need never see burley tobacco selling at the ruinously low prices at which it is selling today; now we urge a full attendance of delegates and if you are not a delegate and live within two hundred miles of Bowling Green we urge you to come and be one in this meeting; and you need not be afraid that you can not be taken care of for we assure you that this City has ample hotel accommodations for the occasion; and the people are big hearted and will see that your needs are fully supplied; now remember this will be a meeting for business it will convene on Jan. 11th, and will stay in session till the business of the convention is finished if it takes a whole week, we expect that if the farmers of Kentucky, will do their duty they will notice an advance in tobacco prices even while we are in session; and satisfactory prices gotten before we cease our efforts in the work that will follow; remember Secretary Wilson shows in his Annual Report that you are to day getting little over 50 per cent what the consumer is paying for what he consumes so if this is true it is not time for organized effort to secure Equity.

West Virginians Know Nothing of Christmas Day.

Now here is another one of those incredible stories about the mountaineers, and their ignorance, but fortunately it applies to our little sister state across the Big Sandy, and not to the proud commonwealth of Kentucky. It matters not however, as to whom it may apply, it is not true notwithstanding it is alleged to come by the authority of "Christian Missionaries." The Wheeling Intelligencer the newspaper that gave the story its first publication, ought to know that the most eloquent minister who ever lived in West Virginia, was born and raised in the most isolated section of the state. Yet can it be possible that he never knew of the origin of Christmas day? No, No. But here is the story:

"Living in the mountain wilderness of southern West Virginia are several hundred mountaineers who know nothing of Christmas, and are as ignorant as the barbarians of the South Sea Islands as to why the day is celebrated throughout the civilized world. The forefathers of these mountaineers migrated to the wild section of West Virginia years ago and their children have sprung up almost ignorant of the outside world, many unable to read and write, while others have never seen alphabets, automobiles, railroad trains or even locked within the walls of our large cities. That a class of people as ignorant as these mountaineers should reside within a state like West Virginia, is beyond belief but these have been the conditions found by the missionaries of the various churches of the state who are now invading this region to preach to these ignorant people the word of God.

The Methodist Episcopal Church is perhaps sending more missionaries into the mountain regions than any other church and the reports that have been turned into the district superintendents by these missionaries are very interesting. The missionaries during the winter months ride and drive over the snow-covered mountain ranges to bring words of cheer to the poor mountaineer and family. With their cabins erected miles away from any hamlet the children of the mountaineer rarely have the opportunity of going to school and live and die unable to read a line or write their own name.

In his report this month which covered his field in this section, a missionary wrote an interesting article on these people whom he stated were anxious to learn the workings of the outside world, the story of which to them sounded like a chapter from Grimm's fairy tales. The good that has been done in this region has been remarkable and within a few years West Virginia will be lifted from the state of barbarism and the anniversary of the birth of Christ will be known by all men, women and children that reside in the state.

PRIZES AWARDED IN CORN SHOW

Growers of Cereal Make Fine Exhibits at Lexington Swine Breeders' Meet.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 3.—Despite the blizzard weather the first annual corn show of the Kentucky Corn Growers' Association opened at State University here to-day with encouraging attendance. There were 238 entries in the twenty classes, practically all of which were well filled. McKee Bros., of Versailles, captured the bulk of the prizes, taking two sweepstakes and a number of firsts in the class exhibits. A. M. Casey and wife, Mrs. Mollie Casey, of Fayette county, and R. M. Squires, of Fayette county, were close seconds each capturing several awards. Prof. Winter of the Agricultural Department University of Illinois, was surprised at the number and quality of the exhibits and says that Kentucky has the soil and climate to become one of the great corn-producing States of the Union. The corn show will continue until Friday.

The Kentucky Swine Breeders' Association is in session here to-day, with prominent breeders present from various parts of the State. Owing to bad weather the attendance is not large. The feature of the morning session was the open address by President J. Lewis Lettice, of Jefferson county, an address by Prof. F. Paul Fisher, of Columbus, O., State Veterinarian on hog cholera and the judging of swine at the Experiment Station.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 4.—Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue received from Wagon in Louisville to-day, makes a showing for the Revenue Agent's division, of which Capt. R. C. Sh is at the head and which comprises the entire State of Kentucky.

During the year 1910 Cshelley and his men were able to collect from dealers in spirits, beer, cigars, etc., who have failed to pay with the law, the enormous sum $315,548.76.

During the year 1910 Cshelley's office has sent a number of collectors to the county jails, ranging from six to ten men, making the year three regulars in Kentucky have been sent to jail for violating the Revenue law.

Also during the year 1910 district clerks have been seized by division and growing out of these seizures forty-three arrests have been made.

In the year under revenue agent's direction 546 convicts were obtained for violation of laws in the State of Kentucky.

Both Capt. Shelly, Revenue Agent in charge and Ludlow F. P. Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth Kentucky district, naturally feel very proud of the record that has been made in the last year.

Until that time we say adieu, We'll strive in every way we know To live so that we may meet you In garments pure and white as snow.

County Attorney C. E. Smith, representing the plaintiff and Hon. M. L. Heavrin representing the defendant, are in Louisville taking depositions in the case of Commonwealth of Ky., et al vs. J. L. Smith, which is set for trial January, 18 by special order of County Court.

The following from the Catlettsburg Daily Tribune will be of interest to the friends here of Mr. Harry D. Kilgore, who visited here about a year ago: "Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Kilgore are the proud parents of a baby daughter that arrived Saturday night, and has been christened Noy Maxine."

This locality experienced the coldest weather of the season Tuesday night when the thermometer registered from ten to fifteen degrees below zero. The cold weather is especially severe on stock and makes the slim supply of feed stuff which farmers have on hand fade away only too fast. It is to be hoped that in return for this however, the continued snows may have a fine effect on the growing wheat crop.

Mrs. Jennie Louise Spaulding Strang Seeking Divorce.

New York, Jan. 4.--Among the cases on the defended divorce calendar in the Supreme Court to-day was that of Mrs. Louise Alexander Strang against Lewis Strang. The plaintiff is the actress, who executed the Apache dance in the "Queen of the Moulin Rouge."

Strang first leaped into prominence as the winner of the Briarcliffe Automobile race. He is now an aviator.

Miss Alexander and Strang were married while the former was with "The Follies of 1910" company and she retired to enjoy a life of domestic bliss. It didn't turn out as blissful as she anticipated and she employed detectives and sued for divorce.

She is a native of Kentucky. She came to New York seeking stage honors a few months before she played in the "Queen of the Moulin Rouge" and was not long in scoring a success.

Mrs. Strang, formerly Miss Jennie Louise Spaulding, is well known in Hartford and it was from Owensboro that she went to New York City, where she entered upon her career on the stage. She was for a long time a Broadway favorite in the Apache dance, in "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge" and it was while she was a member of this company, that she attracted the attention of the then darling automobile racer, Lewis Strang with whom she shortly afterward eloped and to whom she was married. She is a granddaughter of Prof. Wayland Alexander, of this city.

TO EXTEND SCOPE OF Y. M. C. A. TO NEGROES

Every City in the Country Offered $25,000 to That End.

Chicago, Jan. 1.--A move to extend the scope of the Young Men's Christian Association to negroes was begun here to-day with an offer by Julius Rosenwald, head of a big commercial house, to give $25,000 to every city in the United States which will raise $75,000 to be spent for a Y. M. C. A. building for negroes. The offer is good for five years and the only stipulation is that the entire sum must be spent for land, building and furnishing of the institution.

The offer was made at a meeting at which plans were completed for building a Young Men's Christian Association building for Chicago negroes, and came after Mr. Rosenwald gave $25,000 for the building. It is, according to Y. M. C. A. officials here the first move of the association to aid in a solution of the race problem.

"It seems to me that both in the interest of the negroes and of the country, it is essential there should be in every community having large numbers of negroes, a building primarily for men and boys," said Mr. Rosenwald. "They have not yet in their own ranks a sufficient number of persons whose means would enable them to establish and equip such a building, and it is in my judgment the duty of the white people to aid in supplying this need."

L. W. Messer, general secretary of the Chicago association is pledged in charge of awards and he is empowered to deliver the $25,000 to any community as soon as $50,000 of the subscription is raised.

N. W. Harris, head of a banking house, has contributed $25,000 for a negro association building here.

An organization of 250 negroes was formed which will begin to show the task of raising at least $50,000, to be added to the sum to be spent in the erection of a building in the negro section of this city.

A Few Words Concerning the Bank of Hartford.

In this issue of The Republican will be found a statement of the condition of the Bank of Hartford at the close of our semi-annual term, to which we respectfully invite your attention.

This bank was organized in the year 1882, being the first bank organized in this county. Since its organization there have been panics and many financial disturbances. Notwithstanding this fact, it has weathered the storms, and it is with a pardonable pride that we call attention to its present strong condition.

Besides the conservative management of a bank, there is an additional protection to its patrons, and that is a surplus account, which you will observe from our statement we are now enjoying.

It is the purpose of our directors to keep this bank clean, so that at all times our depositors will be absolutely protected.

For many years it has been our custom to appoint a committee composed of two of our directors, who hold no other office in the bank, to count the cash and inspect our notes, and now we have the additional inspection of the State Bank Examiner, whose duty it is to make a careful examination of the bank twice a year. It is well known that the bill passed by our last Legislature creating the office of State Bank Examiner, was vetoed, and the Secretary of State invited banks to be examined notwithstanding this veto. We accepted the Secretary of State's invitation and on the 10th and 17th of last month this bank was thoroughly examined by his representative, who expressed himself as being pleased with our system and good condition.

We take this occasion to express our appreciation of the good will of our patrons who have aided us in our achievements and sincerely trust that the New Year will bring happiness and prosperity to all.

Respectfully,
J. W. FORD, President.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express my many thanks to the patrons of the Fairview school for the surprise basket dinner given me the last day of my school Dec. 23rd, 1910. I also wish to thank the children for the many nice gifts given me, assuring them I will ever remember both pupils and patrons and hope their lives may each be a success. CARRIED OFF BY A LION.

Experiences of a Ranger in the Transvaal.

Two men at least have given accounts of their sensations when they were carried off by lions—the great explorer Livingstone and a man named Wolhuter, a ranger of game preserves in the Transvaal. Wolhuter's adventure is not secondary in interest to Livingstone's experience. His story, which was attested by the certificate of the magistrate of the district, was substantially as follows:

He was riding along a Kafir path about an hour after sunset. It had been a long march, and he had pushed on ahead of his companions. His dog barked at something, and a moment later Wolhuter saw a lion crouching close to him on the right hand side. The ranger turned his horse sharply, a circumstance that no doubt caused the lion to miss the spring.

Wolhuter was unseated. At the same moment he saw another lion coming from the opposite direction. The horse rushed off, with the first lion in pursuit, and the second lion picked Wolhuter up almost before he touched the ground and gripped him by the right shoulder in such a position that he was face up, with his legs and body dragging underneath the beast. The lion trotted down the path, uttering a loud, growling, purring noise.

Wolhuter's sensations were not those of Livingstone, who said he was in a state of apathy, with entire absence of pain during the time the lion had him. The game ranger suffered terribly, both mentally and physically, and saw no possible way of escape. The lion took him nearly 200 yards.

Suddenly Wolhuter brought him of his sheath knife, which he carried in his belt behind his right hip. On reaching a large tree with overhanging roots the lion stopped, whereupon Wolhuter stabbed him twice in the side with his left hand. It was ascertained afterward that the first stab touched the bottom of the heart and that the second one slit it down for some distance.

The lion immediately dropped Wolhuter, and again the game ranger struck him, this time in the throat, severing an artery.

The lion jumped back and stood facing him, growling. Wolhuter scrambled to his feet, shouting at the top of his lungs. He expected the beast to come at him again, but it did not. Instead, it turned slowly and, still growling, went a few paces. Soon its growling turned to moans. These, in turn, ceased, and the ranger knew that the beast was then dead.

Wolhuter got up the tree as fast as his injured arm would permit, and hardly was he seated when the first lion, which had been after the horse, came back on the trail of blood. By this time the plucky ranger was so faint that he tied himself to the tree to prevent himself from falling out.

He was found by his companions who took him to a place of safety. The lion he had killed was an old male, and the weapon used was an ordinary sheath knife.—New York Tribune.

The New Year Cometh.

This is the time of sadness and farewell.

The time of welcome and of new delight;

The old year drifts upon the wings of night.

Into that limbo where the dead years dwell.

From some strange, distance borne, no tongue can tell,

O'er moonlit ways and paved with shining white,

The new, swift-footed year—a vision bright—

Comes at the canon of the old year's knell!

Time turns his glass! The sands fall slowly run,

Freighted, in each dropped grain, with memory—

The failure wrought, the few successes won!

I cry, "O Time, what brings thee here for men?"

The brave-tongued bells peal answers back to me,

"A chance to fail; a chance to win again!"

—Charles C. Jones in January 1900.

Loss That Might Be Avoided.

According to government report, 20,000 people die every year in this country from disease, exposure and neglect.

MANAGE OF ARCHITECTURE.

Origin of the Graceful Corinthian Style of Capital.

When a young girl had died of cholera. Some time afterward her mother gathered together various trinkets and things which the girl had left behind her and placed them in a basket. She placed the basket on a table and the wind from overturning it, knocked that under the basket was a small acanthus plant. When the mother came the acanthus sprouted. Its shoots were not able to pierce the basket, and accordingly they grew round it, having the basket in their midst. Such of the long leaves as grew up against the four protruding ends of the basket on the top of the acanthus sprouted. The basket curled round under these corners and formed pretty volutes.

At this time, the sculptor, walking out one day, saw this and immediately conceived the notion that the form of the basket with the plaque on top of it and surrounded by the leaves and stalks of acanthus would be a lovely heading for columns in architecture. He from this idea formed the beautiful Corinthian style of capital. Such, at least, is the story as the architect Vitruvius told it 1,900 years ago.

Stringent French Customs.

Travelers must not fail to note the stringency of the French customs as the smoking materials they may incidentally bring with them. A correspondent is reminded of a significant scene on the Dieppe landing stage. An English holiday maker who had come down to meet a friend arriving by the boat found himself without light for his pipe and sang out to a friend on board, "Got a match?" The latter was just about to throw his matchbox across the intervening yard when the man on the shore suddenly remembered and added with a hasty pantomime, "No, wait till I return!" And bystanding passers-by had to explain to the astonished newcomer that if the box had been thrown under the eyes of the customs officers every match in it might have had to pay a franc.—London Chronicle.

The Polka.

The polka is the natural dance for the feet of the people. Take in evidence its origin. A Bohemian peasant girl was seen dancing "out of her own head," extemporizing from the sheer joy of her heart song, tune and steps. This she did on a Sunday afternoon in the village of Krasna, near Prague, who spied her, made a note of it he saw. The people of the town adopted the dance and called it the polka, half step. In 1835 it reached Prague and Vienna in 1840; thence it spread rapidly through Europe. When M. Cellarius introduced it to the Parisians we hear that all else gave way before "the all absorbing pursuit, the polka, which embraces in its qualities the intimacy of the waltz with the vivacity of the Irish jig."—Cassell's Magazine.

It Wouldn't Sound Well.

An English north country paper frowns upon the known ambition of the mayor of its town to be made a knight for his distinguished services in receiving royalty and warrants for the benefit of the aspirant this anecdote: When Adam Black, the Edinburgh publisher, was sounded on the subject of receiving knighthood, he said: "Nae, use; it wadna dee. You see," he added, "if a boy cam into ma' shop and said, 'A ha'peth o' slate pencil, Sir Adam,' it wadna sound weel."

A Meek Worm.

"You miserable worm!" cried an incensed wife. "If you was half a man you'd help me to turn the mangle!" "I may be a worm," replied the spouse weebly, "but I ain't the sort that turns."—London Mail.

The Sweet Girl.

Belle—Nellie, dear, may I introduce you to my dance? Nellie—Delighted to meet you, sir! All of your predecessors have been such bully fellows.—Cleveland Leader.

He that riseth late must trot all day and shall scarce overtake his business at night.—Franklin.

For Cooking and Serving.

One and one-half cups cottage cheese one-third cup sugar, two tablespoons cream, one tablespoon melted butter, grated rind of one lemon, three tablespoons lemon juice three eggs, one-fourth cup citron cut fine, one-fourth cup currants.

Mash the cheese thoroughly with a silver fork, then add the sugar, cream, butter, lemon rind and juice and eggs well beaten. But until light and add the citron and currants. Line small tins with good paste and fill two-thirds full with the mixture. Bake until firm to the touch—about fifteen minutes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve when nearly cold.

Moisten one and one-half cupful of cracker crumbs with an equal amount of boiling water and let stand until cold; then add large pint of milk—one beaten egg one-third of a cup of molasses and one-half pound of seeded raisins cut into bits; steam for seven or eight hours, and let it stand in the mold until cold.

Cook without stirring after the ingredients are well mixed, two cups of molasses one cup each of milk and grated chocolate one tablespoon of vanilla and one rounding tablespoon of butter, for twenty-five minutes. Turn into a shallow buttered pan and when cold enough mark into squares.

Cook slowly without stirring two cups of sugar one and one-half cups of molasses one rounding tablespoon of butter and one tablespoon of vinegar. Cook until it is brittle when dropped in cold water. Cool on buttered tins and pull until light colored.

Break the frame of the turkey into small pieces add a few stalks of celery cut into small pieces and any but of meat and bones available. Cover with cold water and heat slowly to the boiling point, then simmer for two or three hours. Remove the fat and take out the bones, also removing the celery stalks if preferred. Reheat, season with salt and pepper, our original recipe says and strain. But I would comment do not strain unless you wish to waste the bits of meat, that according to all economy and good sense should be allowed to remain in this soup unless extravagance is the object sought.

Bake two eggs in a cup and fill the cup with sour cream. Turn out into a bowl and beat very light, then add one-cup of sugar and beat again. Sift one-half level teaspoon of soda and a pinch of salt in one and one-half cups of flour and beat with spoon to suit the taste. If sweet cream is used, take three level teaspoons of baking powder instead of the soda.

Take firm apples of uniform size and pare and core them. Cut crosswise in slices one-quarter of an inch thick. Sprinkle with diluted orange juice and sugar and let stand ten minutes; dry on a cloth, then dip in fritter batter and cook in hot deep fat. Fry to a light brown, remove from fat with skimmer and dry on paper in an open oven until all are done. Roll in sugar and serve on a folded napkin. Eat with a sweet sauce.—Inter Ocean.

'Training Seals is Easy.

According to an old trainer it is a very simple trick to teach seals the tricks they do in the ring.

"The cardinal principle in training animals, says he is not to attempt to make an animal do anything contrary to his nature or his particular species. To be successful a trainer must know enough about the habits of the animals he has under training to fit the tricks he would teach them to their natural bent.

"The seal is very easily taught. You begin with one seal, some small pieces of fish and a string. You let the seal sit on his pedestal, something he likes to do by nature and easily catches it. Next you tie a piece of fish on the end of your string and swing it toward the seal he catches this, too, and you keep moving away from him and swinging the fish to him from an increasing distance. Now you are ready to begin with the hat or cornucopia. You put a piece of fish in the bottom of it and toss it to the seal. The seal is dexterous by nature and his nose quickly detecting the fish in the dip of the cone seeks it out. The cone catches on his snout and he bites out of the fish and tosses the cone aside. Before long he comes to associate the cone with fish and he will catch any number of similar ones and toss them aside when he fails to find what he wants.

Balancing the big rubber ball is based on the same principle. The ball is soaked in fishy brine and thrown to the seal. He gets the odor and tries his best to get into the ball and find what he is after. This result in his balancing the ball on his nose, a feat to which his supple neck and his natural feeding habits are all adapted and then he gets his piece of fish as a prize.—New York World.

A Chance to Supply all Your Needs for a Little Money

Owing to the lack of a good tobacco season which also prevented money from moving, and the financial stringency which has made trade a little slow, we have failed to meet our bills as promptly as we should and we therefore need money and need it badly. Nothing will answer the purpose. We know of no way of getting this money only by selling more goods. A little cash in hand now is much better than a large stock of goods on our shelves. We know times are close and "Economy" is the pass-word everywhere, but we are going to make such a sacrifice of goods at cost prices that the word "Economy" will mean more in our store than anywhere else in the country. It will mean that you are getting goods at prices on which our competitors charge a handsome profit. It will mean a chance for you to supply your needs and yet have more money left in your purse than you usually do in such an emergency. It is the biggest price-cutting sale we have ever managed, and that is saying a whole lot. But we must do it. We can't help the circumstances, which are certainly more to your advantage than ours. You need the goods, we need the money. It will be a snap in which the big end of the bargain will be with you. Kindly scan the following list of articles and prices and see if they don't sound pretty good to you. There is much we could not list, because the printer said he could not stand the space. But it's all here--most anything you need in the Dry Goods line. Don't let this chance escape, for it will be a distinct money loss to you in the matter of economy if you do. Read and act--that's the point.

Nothing is reserved. Everything in our store goes at the same rate of sacrifice prices, for, as we said before, we must have the money. No matter how much goods we have to give for a little bit of it. This sale means much to us and it means much to you. To us it means "move those goods, get that money." To you it means a saving in buying, whichever way you turn in our store. We are being "pinched" and must jump accordingly. Catch the idea? Remember the date--you can hardly forget the place. Just a week. That's the time they gave us, and that's the time we'll give you. We're right on Main street, Hartford, second door from the post office.

One Week Only--January 14th to 21st, 1911.
